ALLIGATORS

Alligators are reptiles that belong to the Alligatoridae family. There are seven species of alligators and smaller caimans. The largest species is the American alligator which grows to 19 feet long. It is found only in the southeastern United States. A smaller species, the Chinese alligator, grows to about 6 feet long and is found along the Yangtze River. Alligators live near water where they eat fish, frogs, birds and other animals. Very large adults can eat a deer or very rarely, a human. Alligators have large mouths and many sharp teeth. They make nests at the edge of water and lay 20 to 50 eggs during the summer. Alligators are very similar to crocodiles. Crocodiles have pointed noses, however. Alligators have more of a rounded nose.

ORIGAMI

Origami is the Japanese art of paper-folding. Usually the objects formed represent people, animals or plants. Most origami figures are done without cutting or gluing. Originally a pastime for children in Japan, origami has become a popular craft for adults as well as children. Making a good origami figure is based on the precision of the folds, called valley folds (concave) and mountain folds (convex.)

Hello DARYL,

My name is Natasha and I'm sure that I'm the ARCHIES' #1 fan, okay? I'm the one who has been subscribing to ARCHIE COMICS like mad because of the good discounts! I've been reading comic books ever since I was six - my mother introduced me to ARCHIE COMICS because she said they're the best. My two favorites are BETTY and JUGHEAD! BETTY isn't selfish or greedy and JUGHEAD isn't conceited and he isn't interested in females like ARCHIE! But if he doesn't stop eating, he'll be the size of the BEE! I
